

SLOW FOOD REGENERATION PROGRAM

▶ HOW TO RESHAPE OUR FOOD SYSTEMS

Slow Food organizes the “Slow Food RegenerAction Program: how to reshape our food systems” that will offer three independent thematic options, focusing on protein transition and tackling specific topics related to the three pillars (Biodiversity, Education and Advocacy) of the Slow Food global strategy.

All sessions will be held online, on the Zoom platform.

Participation to this Program is open to anyone in the Slow Food network in Europe (according to the selection criteria).

Applicants will need to choose one of these three options, according to their interests.

The program will also include the participation to the Slow Beans event in Capannori, Italy (November 24-26, 2023) for a limited number of applicants, who will be awarded with a scholarship.

Selection Criteria

The Slow Food regenerAction Program is open to individuals who:

- Belong to an active Slow Food Community or Convivium in Europe or are involved in one of the project or initiative
- Are interested in the topic of the program
- Speak English (basic knowledge requested)

Preferential requirements, in order of importance:

- Being between 18 – 32 years old;
- Not having attended previous international trainings promoted by Slow Food

The Slow Food Europe Office, in consultation with regional councilors, leaders and national associations, will select a heterogeneous, complementary and representative group of participants in terms of gender, age, roles in food systems (farmers and food producers, cooks, educators, communicators and co-producers).

Expectations from the candidates:

- Active participation in all the meetings of the specific session
- Elaboration of the suggested tasks
- Exchange of the acquired knowledge with their local communities.

All participants who successfully complete the Program will receive a certificate issued by Slow Food International.

Applications are due by April 21st.

Selection of the participants will be confirmed and finalized by end of May.

PLEASE NOTE: The form does not guarantee participation in the training, it will be considered only as an application form, not a registration form.

The Slow Food Europe office will consider the information received and evaluate the characteristics of the candidate, reserving the right to select the participant(s) based on the selection criteria.
